Style: banknote_style_usd_1950
Lighting: Hard Lighting

Core Art Style: The aesthetic was the deeply rooted, traditional Greenback, defined by its strict symmetry and almost monochromatic appearance, using only black ink for the main design and green for seals, serial numbers, and the entire reverse. The art relied almost exclusively on meticulous intaglio engraving, which provided the banknote's distinct, tactile, raised texture. Portraits of presidents and statesmen were typically small, centrally placed, and confined within heavy, ornate oval frames. The borders were exceptionally dense, utilizing complex, symmetrical geometric patterns known as guilloche work as the primary defense against counterfeiting. All denominations maintained a very uniform, formal look with clear, traditional serif typography. This style prioritized tradition and the difficulty of mechanical reproduction over vibrant visual design.

Lighting Style: Sharp, distinct shadows, high contrast, often from a single, small source.

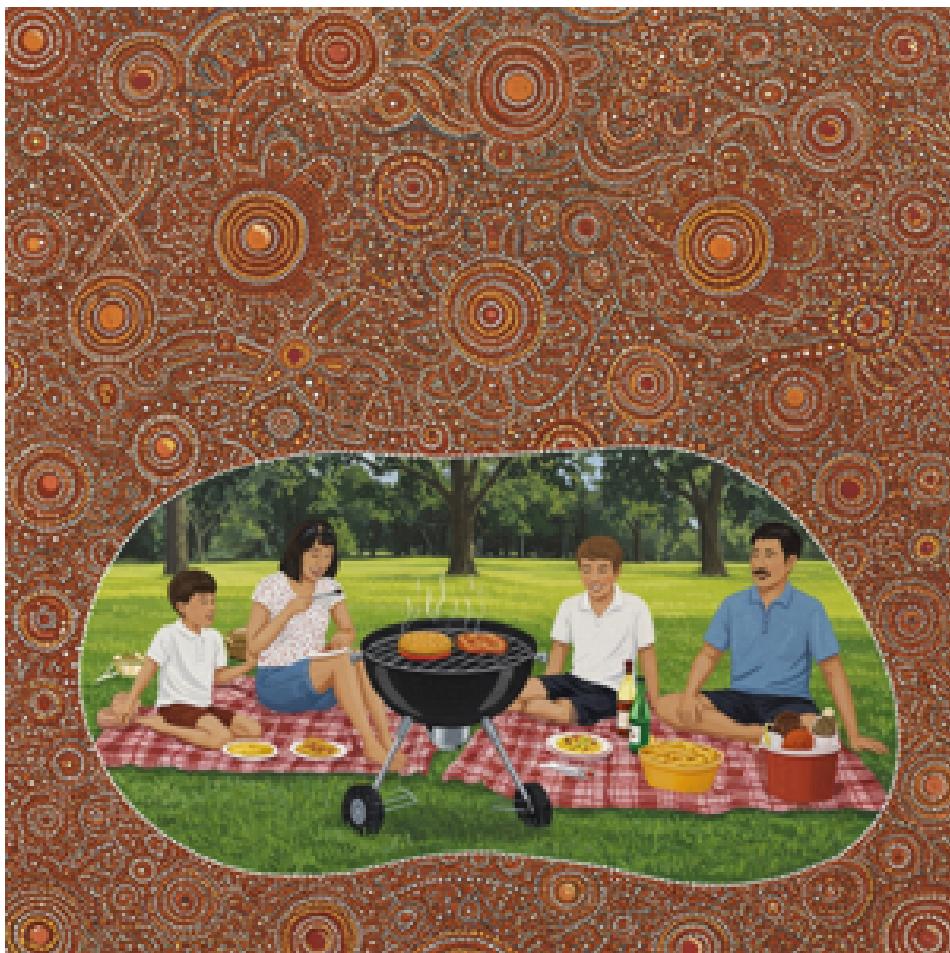

Style: Technical Drawing / Blueprint
Lighting: Fluorescent Light

Core Art Style: Orthographic projections, fine lines, dimensions, often monochrome or white on blue/black. Lighting Style: Cold, slightly green/yellow tint, harsh clinical feel.

Style: Georgia O'Keeffe Lighting: Disco Lighting

Core Art Style: A key figure of American Modern Art, known for her large-scale, close-up paintings of flowers and landscapes. Her style simplifies natural forms into bold, abstract compositions with clean lines and subtle gradients. Lightning Style: Multiple bright, moving, saturated lights (red/blue/green), reflective surfaces, energy.

Style: James Abbott McNeill Whistler
Lighting: Rim Lighting / Edge
Lighting

Core Art Style: An artist associated with the Aesthetic movement, his style is a bridge between Realism and pure abstraction. His 'Nocturnes' utilize subtle tonal harmonies and atmospheric effects, similar to Impressionism, but with a focus on 'art for art's sake'. Lighting Style: Light source is behind the subject, creating a bright outline (halo effect).

Lighting: Backlighting

Core Art Style: The design underwent a significant modernization, evolving into a multi-colored aesthetic through the strategic use of offset printing to add background colors (like peach, blue, or yellow) alongside the traditional green and black. This change broke the strict monochromatic tradition. The portraits are now generally larger, more detailed, and often lack the confining oval borders, giving them greater prominence. The major graphic changes are driven by the integration of advanced, machine-readable security features that are highly visible: dynamic elements like color-shifting inks on large numerals, woven 3-D security ribbons (on the $100), embedded security threads that glow under UV light, and watermarks. While the notes are more visually dynamic and less rigidly symmetrical, they still utilize high-quality intaglio printing for the main portraits and text to preserve the unique tactile experience and to make counterfeiting difficult.
